

JJ Professional Body Spray

This product is to be used as supplied and not diluted. JJ Professional Body Spray is effective against bacteria, fungi and viruses and in particular in cases of ringworm. This product is designed to be sprayed and is particularly of use where there are a large number of horses and where time is precious.

Procedure

1. If you are able, wash the horse thoroughly using JJ Shampoo and rinse down.
2. While the coat is still damp, apply JJ Professional Body Spray through a jet spray or by sponge and allow the coat to air dry for best results.
3. Each application should be of around one hundred millilitres (mls) of product, and should be applied to the neck, shoulders, back and flanks of the horse.
4. Repeat the application daily for five days, usually no more than five days, while the problem persists. If the condition fails to clear, seek veterinary advice.

CAUTION: If a reaction such as inflammation or oedema is observed, discontinue treatment for 24 to 36 hours and recommence. This reaction is the result of disruption to the causative organism's life cycle and is not an acute reaction by the horse per se.

This product is safe and can be used in open wounds to clean and disinfect. It can also be used prior to stitching and dressing applications.

To assist the horse's immune system and reduce loading, it is good practice to spray the horse every seven to ten days to stop re-infection. It is also good practice to spray all equipment including rugs to reduce the risk of re-infection.

Full protocols on laminated sheets are available for your stables if required.
